GADGETS WORK TO AID BARRY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A headquarters crammed with electronic gadgets will guide the Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater's bid for nomination next week.

No candidate has ever equipped himself so well to keep tabs on what's going on at a political convention. Not only that, his committee has purchased time on San Francisco television and radio stations to provide periodic reports to delegates and alternates as well as to the public at large.

The command post is the off-beat 18th floor of the Mark Hopkins Hotel, where the senator will live in a three-room suite.

The system includes television monitors for closed circuit cameras that will show where staff members are at the hotel and when the scene of action changes, at the Cow Palace. A special board will record their whereabouts.

USE DIRECT PHONES

Direct telephones to the convention floor for immediate contact with Goldwater delegates.

A short-wave communication system between the Cow Palace and the Mark Hopkins will serve as a backup device to keep the message secret.

A telephone system for regional campaign directors. And a take-up machine to set up just in case the other devices break down.

Staff members will be able to reach Goldwater in his own suite on a special panel telephone.

LONDON (CP)—Confidence that the Commonwealth can develop "practical schemes" for greater economic cooperation was expressed today by Prime Minister Keith Holyoake of New Zealand.

Asked whether he saw Commonwealth and being provided by such wealthier countries as Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand as a "consortium," Holyoake said something like that is already happening. ## ANN LANDERS

Refusal To Gossip Sound Philosophy

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about the woman who was fearful that her popularity was based on a rare talent for passing on gossip. She signed her letter "Blattemouth" and closed by saying, "I don't like myself very much today." May I add something which may be of value?

When I was a child I overheard a friend of my mother's confiding an intimate family problem to a young woman standing behind the door. She said nothing.

After the woman left, mother called me to the sewing room to have a little talk. She started by saying, "Son, if a friend left a packet of salt in a wallet in our house you wouldn't give away her money, would you?"

I replied, "Of course not." Mother continued, "Well, to day a friend left something in our house which is far more precious than money. It is her secret. If we give it away it would hurt her terribly. We would be hurting ourselves too because we always end up sad when we do things that make other people unhappy."

I never told a soul what I heard that day. My mother's words made such an impression on me that to this day I have never passed on a bit of gossip. Keeping my mouth shut has been a way of life.

I have profited from this lesson which I learned early in life. Perhaps this is why I have maintained so many lasting and cherished friendships. — OLD LACKJAW

Dear O.L.J.: What a wise and wonderful mother you have! Not only was her philosophy sound, but she had a most effective way of teaching you personal integrity. Thank you for sharing her wisdom with us.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband was sent to a large city business away to set up a new office for his firm. His assistant is with him and they share an apartment. I've never met his assistant but I've heard he is extremely handsome and a wild man with the women.

I wrote to my husband recently and asked if his assistant was married. He replied, "I don't stick my nose in other people's business. I wouldn't ask the guy if he is married and he wouldn't ask me such a personal question, either."

This got me to thinking. My husband hasn't been home in six weeks. He promised to get home every other weekend.

New Junior Canadiens Coach Stresses Player Discipline

MONTREAL (CP)—The most important word in Junior Canadiens coach Sam Pollock's mind is discipline.

Discipline makes good hockey players better and strong hockey teams great, says the new coach of Montreal Junior Canadiens.

Bachelor William (Scotty) Bowman, 29, bases his faith in discipline partly on the fact that he experienced it himself as a player, coach and scout under Sam Pollock, newly appointed general manager of the parent National Hockey League Canadiens.

His faith has been strengthened by observing that the system produces success in the Canadiens organization.

"The biggest key to the Canadiens' success over the years is the strict discipline," Bowman says. "In junior hockey, Canadiens operate on the theory that things shouldn't be made easy for players too early."

"We find out who are the dedicated players, the youngsters who dig in and can take the hard knocks. There is little fooling around."
